Call for Papers

The Center for Hemispheric and United States Studies (CEHSEU) is pleased to announce the

VI International Conference on Hemispheric and US Studies

May 28-30, 2025

University of Havana

Papers must reflect phenomena related to the US dynamics, including elements of the political system, the decision-making process of its international policy, electoral situation, socio-demographic structure, ideology, among others. All those papers focused on hemispheric processes such as conflicts, integration, regional or continental security must include the role the United States has played in their development (bilateral relations with specific countries, its hemispheric or global policy, among others).

Thus, the main topics are the following:

1. The United States of America: its socioeconomic evolution and domestic political processes in the XXI Century.
2. The United States of America: changes and continuities in the elements and factors impacting its foreign policy.
3. Bilateral Relations between Cuba and the United States of America.
4. Latin America and the Caribbean: sociopolitical processes and their relations with the United States of America.

Those interested must send a proposal to the Organizing Commission with the following data: Full name, institution, telephone number, email, title of the paper and abstract of no more than 250 words.

The paper submission deadline is March 10, 2025. For more details, contact cehseuconf@gmail.com

We look forward to your submissions!
