2023
Convención Científica Internacional
Universidad de La Habana

As a part of the International Scientific Convention University of Havana 2023, that will be held between May 29 and June 2, 2023, the Faculty of Psychology of the University of Havana, Cuba CALLS ON ALL INTERESTED PARTIES to participate in the III INTERNATIONAL CONGRESS UNIVERSITY DIALOGUES OF PSYCHOLOGY.

The III INTERNATIONAL CONGRESS OF UNIVERSITY DIALOGUES OF PSYCHOLOGY intends to discuss on crucial and updated issues the Psychological practice and conceptualization. This discussion will be carried out along with other social science's disciplines and contextualized our countries, privileging Latin America as a region of cultural, social and historical community as well as intentional and projective. Likewise, it will be an opportunity to visualize and socialize the diversity and richness of scientific and professional production, as a way of promoting productive exchanges between Psychology professionals from their particular and shared contexts.##

It will also be an excuse to analyze the current situation of Psychology teaching, professional training in its links with the most prominent problems of different countries, the social and economic problems that institute diverse, conflicted subjectivities with deep needs of emancipation and growth. It will also be a chance to promote critical and self-critical thinking that values the emancipatory, educational, mobilizing and socially committed functions of Psychology. In this way, we seek to promote the positioning of the historical, ethical and humanist senses of Psychology in its association with the construction of well-being, spiritual wealth, the ecological vision of life, and its sustainability, cultural richness, social justice, respect for differences and their capacities for interaction and coexistence. At the same time, we intend to promote epistemological, theoretical, methodological and praxological reflection of Psychology, in the different fields of professional action, as well as the development of concepts, theoretical models, procedures and instruments of work, adapted to our realities, problems and national demands.

That is why we open the call to professionals and students of Psychology to participate and/or present their research and professional experiences. The reception of abstracts is open until March 20, 2023 through the convention website www.convencionuh.com. The papers presented will be evaluated for their subsequent publication in the Cuban Journal of Psychology.
